

and it looks like a sailor's cap on the table, which I suppose was his. I am sorry I have no better one, but you may like to keep it such as it is.

I hope to go to Schull for a holiday later on. We still have the old home of the Bennetts' there, and often go, especially my brother ^{Ernest Evans}, who keeps a yacht in Schull, and is very fond of the sea. It is in the blood, I think. I often pass Bearscove; if we go for a lonely drive around Dunmanu Bay, and wish I could see the inside!

With kind regards, and good wishes,
Yours sincerely
Evelyn Bateman.
