Dear Madam

A few days ago a friend of mine handed me a newspaper cutting in which you looked for information about Irish ancestors. I am writing this on the chance that nobody has already given you the information you look for.

The Blairs lived at Blairs Cove near Durrus about six miles from Bantry. They were landlords in a small way. Catherine O Donovan's parents lived at O Donovans Cove on the other side of Dunmanus Bay about four miles west from Durrus.

They were also landlords in a small way. Both families are now extinct locally. I should have some dates re births etc., but can not put my hand on them now. However if you still need information I am sure I could get some for you.

I remain yours sincerely
Tadhg O Donnabháin
