				Thomas Trehwela married Lucinda O'Sullivan at Killeconenagh in 1845 and the baptism of their first son is also in these records. In 1841 widowed Mary Trehwela and two youngest sons were in Swansea where son Benjamin died about 1854. Son John ended up in New York whilst Thomas and Lucinda spent some time in Wales before migrating to Chile around 1853.	Richard Trehwela was a blacksmith in the Allihies Mines and when he died in 1839 was recorded as 'head smith of Allihies Mines'. He and his family left Cornwall sometime between 1826 and about 1830. Two more sons were born after arrival probably at Killeconenagh or Berehaven. After Richard's death in 1839 most of the family seemed to move on. The marriage of daughter Elizabeth in 1840 is found in the Berehaven records - her husband was John Howell. Some of the Howell family are found later in England.
